The doctor who conducted postmortem had handed over the dresses worn by the deceased to P.W.30 and he recovered the same under Form 95 which was marked as Ex.P.60 and thereafter, he sent the accused to the court. Subsequently, as the investigation of the case has been directed to be conducted by CBCID, he has handed over the case file to the CBCID Inspector. 3.22.The trial Court framed the charges against the accused under section 354D IPC or in alternative under section 4 of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition of Harassment of Women Act and under section 302 IPC or in alternative under section 4A(2)(i) of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition of Harassment of Women Act.

3.23.To prove the case, the prosecution has examined as many as 31 witnesses, namely P.W.1 to P.W.31 and marked 90 documents, namely Ex.P.1 to Ex.P.90. Two documents, namely Ex.C.1 and Ex.C.2 were also marked as court side exhibits. Further, the prosecution has produced 23 material objections, namely M.O.1 to M.O.23. Ex.X1 to Ex.X.5 documents were also marked.

3.24.On completion of the evidence on the side of the prosecution, the accused was questioned under section 313 Cr.P.C. as to the incriminating circumstances found against him in the evidence adduced by the prosecution witnesses. He denied all the incriminating circumstances. On the side of the defence, two witnesses were examined as D.W.1 and D.W.2 and seven documents were marked as Ex.D.1 to Ex.D.7.

3.25. On the side of the accused, D.W.1, the reporter of Puthiya Thalaimurai has deposed that on 22.10.2022, they telecast the news pertaining to the case in their Television and they have also telecast the request from the police officials to the public that if the general public know about the occurrence, they can inform the police. D.W.2, the Psychiatric doctor working in the Puzhal central prison was also examined. She deposed that she has examined the accused in the jail. The accused informed her that he is in the habit of taking drinks and the accused further informed her that as he was thinking about the occurrence, he had headache for two days and he did not have proper sleep. D.W.2 deposed that proper counselling was given to the accused.

Ex.D.6 is the behaviour report of the accused maintained in the prison and Ex.D.7 is the copy of the Intake form in which the accused was interrogated on his custody in prison and the same was recorded in the said form.

3.26.The trial Court, after appreciating the oral and documentary evidence and materials on record, by judgment dated 27.12.2024, found the accused guilty of the offences and thereby, convicted and sentenced him to undergo imprisonments as stated above.

4.Challenging the conviction and sentence, CrI.A.No.1744 of 2025 is filed by the accused. A reference has been made by the learned Sessions Judge, Mahalir Neethimandram, Allikulam under Section 366 of Cr.P.C. for confirmation of the capital punishment of death sentence awarded to the accused which was numbered and taken as R.T.No.1 of 2025.

5.Learned Public Prosecutor would submit that the trial court has given maximum punishment to the accused as according to him, the murder is a brutal one and the deceased was pushed in front of the running train since the deceased refused to marry the accused and decided to marry the other person. The prosecution has proved the complicity of the accused in the crime. The presence of the accused in the occurrence place has been clearly spoken to by P.W.1 who is the eye witness. That apart, the CCTV footages were downloaded in the pendrive and CD and were marked as material objects. It is clear from the evidence of P.W.22 that there is no digital manipulation which has been clearly spoken to by the expert. Learned Public Prosecutor further submitted that the accused used to follow the deceased in respect of which a complaint has earlier been given by the mother of the deceased to P.W.19, Sub Inspector of Police, St. Thomas Mount police station and thereafter, a complaint has also been lodged to the jurisdictional police station at Mambalam before P.W.20.

6. According to learned Public Prosecutor, it is the choice of a woman to marry a man of her choice and that the accused cannot take advantage. The learned Public Prosecutor submitted that the accused had already decided to eliminate the deceased and with pre-determined mind, the accused has followed the deceased continuously and there is no sudden provocation for the accused to commit the crime. It is with the intention of committing such a grave crime, the accused came to the railway station on the date of occurrence and committed such a grave crime. The evidence of eyewitness and the electronic evidence have clearly proved the offence committed by the accused and the evidences are corroborated with each other. Therefore, the Prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and there is no mitigating circumstances to give lesser punishment to the accused. The occurrence has happened in the railway station with full public view and it is a preplanned gruesome murder without any sudden provocation. Further, after the incident, the family of the deceased was totally devastated. Therefore, the learned

Public Prosecutor submitted that the capital punishment imposed by the trial court has to be confirmed.

7.The learned senior counsel Mr.R.John Sathyan, appearing for the appellant in the criminal appeal and respondent in the Referred Trial, fairly submits that as far as the occurrence is concerned, he has no case, but the case does not require any capital punishment. The relationship between the accused and deceased is not disputed and they are in love affair for many years. Both of them are residing in the same police quarters since some of the family members of both accused and deceased were working in the police department. The very evidence of P.W.1 clearly indicates that there were messages exchanged between deceased and accused and in fact, a perusal of the instagram account of the accused clearly shows that they were in love affair. This has been spoken to by P.W.1. According to learned Senior Counsel, when they were in such relationship, suddenly, the family of the deceased decided to marry the deceased to some one mainly on the ground that the accused is from different caste and he is jobless and is 10 years elder to deceased, that apart he is a drunkard and addicted to drug. On that ground, the deceased has in fact agreed to marry the other person. The learned senior counsel submitted that such a situation has forced the accused to commit such offence as he is mentally disturbed. In fact, the accused had momentary loss of sanity and reasoning. There was no intention of the accused to commit such an occurrence.

8.Further, the learned senior counsel submitted that the accused is young and in a fit of rage and due to the sidelining by the deceased though they were in love affair for many years which provoked him and caused frustration which has developed as sustained provocation. Due to such sustained provocation and fit of anger, he has pushed the deceased in the railway track. Learned senior counsel submitted that the evidence of P.W.1 is clear that the deceased tried to get up but slipped. Therefore, the accused has no intention to commit the offence. In any event, the entire occurrence is due to fit of rage and due to sustained provocation. The accused had momentary loss of sanity and reasoning and out of frustration, he has committed the offence and therefore, it is not a fit case for awarding the capital punishment. The conduct of the deceased and their relationship would clearly show that there are mitigating circumstance to award lesser sentence other than the capital punishment.

The accused was mentally and emotionally disturbed due to the deceased sidelining him. Therefore, the mental and emotional aspect of the accused also should be taken note of. It is a fit case where the capital punishment awarded by the trial court has to be set aside and this court may consider awarding the lesser punishment to the accused.

9.We have perused the entire materials and paid anxious consideration to the submissions made by both sides.

10.It is to be noted that P.Ws.1 to 3 were classmates of the deceased in the college and they were all students of Shri Shankarlal Sundarbai Shasun Jain College for Women. In her evidence, P.W.1 has clearly spoken that the deceased and P.W.1 used to go to the college in the electric train. They used to board the train at St. Thomas Mount railway station regularly. The accused also is known to them and previously, the accused and the deceased had love affair. When the family of the accused requested for the marriage, the same was negatived by the family of the deceased on the ground that the accused is addicted to drinks and drugs and is jobless and that the accused is 10 years elder to the deceased and is from different caste. Therefore, the family of the deceased decided to marry the deceased to one Rahul. After such development, the accused was still following the deceased. He has also involved in a quarrel with the deceased on many occasions. On one occasion, the accused went to the college of the deceased, where he had created ruckus and waylaid the deceased and even beat her. In respect of the same, a complaint has also been filed before P.W.19 by the mother of the deceased. P.W.19, Sub Inspector of Police, St. Thomas Mount police station has clearly spoken about the complaint Ex.P.7 given by the mother of the deceased. He has also enquired the accused which resulted in filing CSR No.243 of 2022 and after enquiry, the accused was warned and the said case was closed. Later, they were also asked to give a complaint to the jurisdictional police. P.W.20, Sub Inspector of Police, Mambalam Police station has also enquired the complaint given by the mother of the deceased and has enquired the accused and warned him. He filed FIR under section 75 of the City Police Act and collected fine and released the accused on bail. These facts clearly establish that after the deceased disowned the accused and after her family decided to marry her to one Rahul, the accused still was following the deceased and in fact, was persistent in continuing the relationship with deceased.

11.The evidence of P.W.1 when carefully scanned, it is clearly seen that even after the relationship of the accused and deceased was broken, still the accused has kept in his DP that 'Sathish loves Sathya we are married'. P.W.2, one of the classmates of the deceased has also spoken about the love affair between the deceased and accused. P.W.3 also has spoken about such affair between the deceased and accused. P.Ws.1 to 3 were classmates of deceased and they were aware that the deceased and accused had love affair which later broke out due to the intervention of the family of the deceased. The evidence of P.W.1 further clearly shows that even after the deceased disowned the accused, the accused was following her which resulted in a complaint which was enquired by

P.W.19 and P.W.20 and the accused was warned and has given an undertaking that he will not repeat the same. On 12.10.2022 also, the accused came to the railway station which has been informed by the deceased to P.W.1. On 13.10.2022, on the date of occurrence, P.W.1 has reached the railway station at about 12.40 p.m. and after some time, the deceased also came there to go to the college. The accused was also in the railway station and was seated in the railway station. When the train from Tambaram to Beach train was approaching the railway station, the accused pretending in conversation over phone came nearer to the deceased and has pushed her, as a result of which the deceased fell down on the track and was run over by the train. Thereafter, the accused has started running from the place of occurrence.

12.The evidence of P.W.1 is also clearly substantiated by the electronic evidence. The video footages in the CCTV camera from 11.10.2022 till the date of occurrence, i.e., on 13.10.2022 have been downloaded by P.W.13, the Sub Inspector of Police, Railway Protection Force, St. Thomas Mount Railway station. He in fact downloaded the same in M.O.9 pendrive and M.O.12 CD. He has also issued a certificate under section 65B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It is relevant to note that his evidence in the cross examination clearly indicates that he was also in-charge of the CCTV system though there is a separate control room with regard to the CCTV. His evidence clearly shows that he was only looking after the CCTV system and he has downloaded the footages and has issued the certificate under Section 65B of the Indian Evidence Act which is marked as Ex.P.22.

13.P.W.22, the Assistant Director of Forensic Science Department has examined the said pendrive and the CD and other materials sent to him and found that there is no digital manipulation in the video footages downloaded in the M.O.9 pendrive and M.O.12 CD. He has also given a report Ex.P.44. He has also given the evidence to the effect that on examination of the material objects, no digital manipulation was found in the CCTV footages downloaded and therefore, we are of the view that the electronic evidence cannot be discarded. P.W.1 has also identified the CD footages in the court. We have also seen the footages and the same is clearly substantiated by the evidence of P.W.1. The presence of P.W.1 and the accused at the relevant point of time has also been clearly established. P.W.24, the Anthropologist working in the Forensic Sciences Department has also examined the pendrive and photographs of the accused Ex.P.46 and compared the photographs by using Amped-Five software and has issued Ex.P.48, Anthropological report. The said report clearly indicate that the morphological facial features described from the facial images of the male individual seen in the photographs were compared with the visually available facial features of the male individuals appearing in the video footages of the pendrive. The video footages were examined in normal speed and in slow motion and also in the form of selected snapshots both on screen and as hard copies. The male individual with facial features similar to the male individual seen in the photographs were identified from the video footages of the pendrive and finally opined that the male individual seen in the photographs items 2 to 7 and the identified male individual appearing and seen pushing a female individual onto the railway track while the train comes on the track in the video footages of the pendrive item 1 could possibly be the same male individual. She has also given a detailed examination and a report. P.W.1 in her evidence has also clearly identified the images in the CCTV and immediately after the occurrence, she sat down in the seat and she has also identified the dead body which was also captured in the CCTV footages. All these were clearly spoken to by P.W.1.

14.P.W.13, Sub Inspector of Police, RPF, St. Thomas Mount

WEB COPY

Railway Station has also clearly stated in his evidence that though the timing is shown as 13.37 hours in the CCTV, the timing in the CCTV recording was shown to be 43 minutes extra. The court is of the view that though the time has been altered some how or the other, the fact remains is that the occurrence took place when the Tambaram -Beach Train approached the station which has been clearly established. P.W.11, the loco pilot, in his evidence has clearly stated that the train ran over the deceased at 12.55 hours. Therefore, merely because there is some difference in the CCTV camera with regard to the time, that will not tilt the prosecution version. The presence of P.W.1 and the accused were clearly established not only by the ocular witnesses, but also through electronic evidence. We have also seen the video footages downloaded which clearly shows that the accused was very much present and pretending to be in conversation with some third party over phone, he has pushed the deceased Sathya on the track and immediately, the train ran over the deceased. This fact clearly shows that it is only the accused who has pushed the deceased down. P.W.1 was accompanying the deceased daily to the college. Her evidence appears to be natural and there was no reason to implicate the accused in the crime. Further, the evidence of experts, namely P.W.22 and P.W.24 clearly proved the electronic evidence and that the identity of the accused has also been established by Anthropological report Ex.P.48 and the evidence of P.W.24. Therefore, the act of the accused pushing the deceased into the track has been clearly established.

15.The motive of pushing the deceased on the railway track, particularly on noticing that the train was entering the railway station has also been clearly established. The accused had love affair with the deceased which fact has been clearly established not only by P.Ws.1 to 3 but also by the evidence of P.Ws.19 and 20 who have been examined to prove the previous complaints given against the accused as the accused was following the deceased and was giving trouble to the deceased and has created ruckus in front of the college where the deceased was studying. Therefore, the motive on the part of the accused to commit the crime by eliminating the deceased in view of the fact that she disowned him, has been clearly established.

16.P.W.21, the medical officer who has conducted autopsy over the dead body of the deceased found the injuries on the dead body as noted above and the post mortem report is Ex.P.36 and has given the opinion Ex.P.38 that the deceased would appear to have died of traumatic decapitation. The postmortem doctor has noted that all the injuries noted by him are antemortem in nature.

17.Further, the body of the deceased was torn into pieces due to the train being run over. The body of the deceased has been identified through DNA Test Ex.P.41 which has been marked through P.W.21, doctor. Further, the identity of the victim has also been identified not only in the DNA test but also by the dresses worn by her. This fact was also spoken to by P.W.1. In fact, the electronic evidence clearly proved the complicity of the accused with the crime and P.W.1 who was present at the time of occurrence has also clearly spoken about the occurrence.

Therefore, the question of identity does not arise at all. The evidence of

P.W.11, loco pilot, P.W.12 Train manager and P.W.15 Chief Ticket

Inspector have also clearly spoken that the train ran over the deceased and immediately thereafter, the train was also stopped. The fact remains is that the time between the accused pushing the deceased into the track and the train ran over has happened within a few seconds.

18. Therefore, it is clear from the analysis of the deposition of witnesses and the materials found that only the accused has pushed the deceased in a fit of rage due to the failure in love affair as the deceased has disowned him and a complaint in this regard was also given by P.W.1

and the FIR has also been registered. Though the FIR has been registered on the same day, it reached the court the next day with some delay.

Considering the nature of the incident which has occurred in the busy railway station and the dead body was removed from the place of occurrence and was sent to the Government Hospital and the investigating officers were present and the investigation was carried out immediately, the despatch of the FIR to the Court with a delay is not fatal to the prosecution when all other evidences are undoubtedly pointing towards the guilt of the accused and the evidence of eye witnesses and the scientific evidences are corroborating with each other. Even in section 313 Cr.P.C. questioning also, the accused has not disputed that he had affairs with the deceased. The call details of the accused and the deceased were also examined by the Experts and it is clearly found from the messages and in the instagram of the accused that the accused maintained the DP indicating that he loves the deceased.

19. On careful perusal of the evidence of P.W.1 coupled with the electronic evidence and the medical doctor's evidence, this court is of the considered view that it has no doubt in his mind to conclude that it is only the accused who has committed the offence of murder. The very act of the accused pushing the deceased knowing well that the train is approaching in the said direction clearly shows that the accused knew that it is so imminently dangerous that his act must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as aforesaid. This act of the accused certainly falls within the ambit of Section 300 of IPC. The intention of the accused can also be gathered through his act. The accused was following the deceased even after she disowned him and even he wanted to continue the relationship with her. In fact, he prostrated before P.W.1 on one occasion and requested her to make the deceased to speak to him. The evidence of P.W.1 clearly shows that the accused prostrated before P.W.1 and he wanted to continue the relationship with the deceased. This fact clearly shows that the accused has committed the act out of frustration as the deceased disowned him. However, the fact remains is that it is the choice of the deceased to marry a person of her choice. The right to marry a person of one's choice is a fundamental right. Merely because the deceased did not like to marry the accused will not give a licence to the accused to commit such an act of murder. Though the accused might have been under frustration to cause such drastic act by committing murder by pushing the deceased on the railway track, particularly knowing well that the train is approaching the station, he has no authority to take another's life. The commission of murder cannot be justified under any circumstances. From the conduct of the accused, the intention of the accused to cause death can be easily inferred. After pushing the deceased into the track, the accused has tried to flee from the place of occurrence which fact has also been clearly captured in the CCTV and has also been spoken to by P.W.1. This act of the accused clearly shows that the accused had, in fact with the intention of doing away the deceased, meticulously executed the plan knowing fully well that the train was approaching the railway station which resulted in the death of an innocent girl. Therefore, we are of the view that the act of the accused is certainly comes under the ambit of section 300 of IPC.

WEB COPY

20.The contention of the learned senior counsel for the accused is that since the accused was in frustration and the provocation which was persistent in his mind for a few months after the deceased disowned him has caused sustained provocation and has led to the occurrence. Such a contention cannot be countenanced. In fact, the accused was waiting in the railway station for the deceased to come to the station and was watching her from a distance under the pretext that he was talking to some one over phone and when the train was approaching the station, he was casually coming near to the deceased in order to execute his plan of committing murder and in a fraction of second, he pushed the deceased to the track. This act of the accused clearly shows that the act of the accused is not due to sudden or sustained provocation. Therefore, the act of the accused cannot be brought under any of the exceptions to section 300 of IPC. The learned senior counsel has very fairly submitted that the act caused by the accused is not disputed but he tried to bring the act of the accused within any of the exceptions to section 300 of IPC.

WEB COPY

21. On a perusal of the entire evidence and also looking the manner in which the accused pushed her and was waiting in the railway station not only on the occurrence date but also on the previous day, this court is of the view that the accused has meticulously executed his plan of doing away the deceased. Therefore, his act will not fall within the ambit of any of the exceptions as contended by the learned senior counsel appearing for the accused. The accused is certainly liable for punishment under section 302 of IPC. Accordingly, the charge against the accused under section 302 of IPC has been clearly established.

22. The trial court has also convicted the accused under section 4 of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition of Harassment of Women Act, 1998. To bring the act of the accused within the ambit of harassment of woman, it must be proved that any indecent conduct or act by a man causes or likely to cause intimidation, fear, shame or embarrassment including abusing or causing hurt or nuisance or assault or use of force. A perusal of the entire evidence would show that though in the month of May, 2022, there was some incident in the college, later there was no such harassment whatsoever caused. The accused has followed the deceased and was waiting in the railway station and therefore, in the absence of any evidence with regard to harassment, it cannot be said that the offence under section 4 of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition of Harassment of Women Act, 1998 has been made out. The accused has just followed her and he, some how or the other, wanted to restore the relationship with the deceased. Therefore, when the accused and the deceased are known to each other and when he tried to restore the relationship and made such attempts towards the same, it cannot be said that there was some harassment to bring the offence within the ambit of section 4. Therefore, the conviction and sentence imposed by the trial court under aforesaid section 4 alone is set aside. However, we confirm the conviction imposed by the trial court against the accused under section 302 of IPC.

23. Now the question that arises is whether the act of the accused requires any capital punishment.

WEB COPY

24.No doubt, the accused has decided to eliminate the deceased since the relationship with her failed despite several attempts made by him to restore the same. At the same time, it is pertinent to note that it is the choice of a women to select her spouse. Merely because the deceased girl disowned him will not give licence to the accused to take away her life. Due to the death of the deceased, her father has committed suicide and her mother who was suffering from cancer also died. The entire family of the deceased was devastated and shattered due to the act of the accused. The act of the accused clearly indicates that he was mentally and emotionally disturbed due to frustration on account of the failure of his relationship with the deceased. The evidence of the witnesses also indicate that the family members of the deceased and accused were working in the police department and they were residing in the same police quarters and therefore, the accused and deceased developed love affair for many years. Suddenly when the family of the deceased disowned him and decided to marry the deceased to one Rahul, the same has caused frustration in the mind of the accused and therefore, the accused was nurturing the ill towards deceased and decided to eliminate her. Though the act of the accused certainly comes under section 300 of IPC, we are of the view that the act of the accused committing murder of the deceased does not fall within the category of 'Rarest of Rare' case. It is relevant to note that Hon'ble Apex Court in Manoj Vs. State of

Madhya Pradesh reported in (2023) 2 SCC 353 in paragraphs 247 to 251

has held as follows:

'247. The goal of reformation is ideal, and what society must strive towards — there are many references to it peppered in this Court's jurisprudence across the decades — but what is lacking is a concrete framework that can measure and evaluate it. Unfortunately, this is mirrored by the failure to implement prison reforms of a meaningful kind, which has left the process of incarceration and prisons in general, to be a space of limited potential for systemic reformation. The goal of reformative punishment requires systems that actively enable reformation and rehabilitation, as a result of nuanced policy-making. As a small step to correct these skewed results and facilitate better evaluation of whether there is a possibility for the accused to be reformed (beyond vague references to conduct, family background, etc.), this Court deems it necessary to frame practical guidelines for the courts to adopt and implement, till the legislature and executive, formulate a coherent framework through legislation. These guidelines may also offer guidance or ideas, that such a legislative framework could benefit from, to systematically collect and evaluate information on mitigating circumstances.

Practical guidelines to collect mitigating circumstances

248. There is urgent need to ensure that mitigating circumstances are considered at the trial stage, to avoid slipping into a retributive response to the brutality of the crime, as is noticeably the situation in a majority of cases reaching the appellate stage.

249. To do this, the trial court must elicit information from the accused and the State, both. The State, must—for an offence carrying capital punishment—at the appropriate stage, produce material which is preferably collected beforehand, before the Sessions Court disclosing psychiatric and psychological evaluation of the accused. This will help establish proximity (in terms of timeline), to the accused person's frame of mind (or mental illness, if any) at the time of committing the crime and offer guidance on mitigating factors (1), (5), (6) and (7) spelled out in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] . Even for the other factors of (3) and (4)—an onus placed squarely on the State—conducting this form of psychiatric and psychological evaluation close on the heels of commission of the offence, will provide a baseline for the appellate courts to use for comparison i.e. to evaluate the progress of the accused towards reformation, achieved during the incarceration period.

250. Next, the State, must in a time-bound manner, collect additional information pertaining to the accused. An illustrative, but not exhaustive list is as follows:

- (a) Age
- (b) Early family background (siblings, protection of parents, any history of violence or neglect)
- (c) Present family background (surviving family members, whether married, has children, etc.)
- (d) Type and level of education
- (e) Socio-economic background (including conditions of poverty or deprivation, if any)
- (f) Criminal antecedents (details of offence and whether convicted, sentence served, if any)
- (g) Income and the kind of employment (whether none, or temporary or permanent, etc.);

WEB COPY

(h) Other factors such as history of unstable social behaviour, or mental or psychological ailment(s), alienation of the individual (with reasons, if any), etc.

This information should mandatorily be available to the trial court, at the sentencing stage. The accused too, should be given the same opportunity to produce evidence in rebuttal, towards establishing all mitigating circumstances.

251. Lastly, information regarding the accused's jail conduct and behaviour, work done (if any), activities the accused has involved themselves in, and other related details should be called for in the form of a report from the relevant jail authorities (i.e. Probation and Welfare Officer, Superintendent of Jail, etc.). If the appeal is heard after a long hiatus from the trial court's conviction, or High Court's confirmation, as the case may be — a fresh report (rather than the one used by the previous court) from the jail authorities is recommended, for a more exact and complete understanding of the contemporaneous progress made by the accused, in the time elapsed. The jail authorities must also include a fresh psychiatric and psychological report which will further evidence the reformatory progress, and reveal post-conviction mental illness, if any. '

25.In a recent decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vasanta

Sampat Dupare Vs. Union of India reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC

1823, the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manoj case supra has been referred to say that the above directions oblige the State, rather than the accused, to place before the trial court, at the very sentencing stage, a structured dossier covering psychiatric assessment proximate to the offence, socio-econommmic and family history, educational attainment, prior conduct, and a contemporaneous report on jail behavior and by doing so, it is intended to prevent sentencing from defaulting into a purely retributive response to the brutality of the crime and to supply appellate courts with a baseline against which genuine progress towards reformation can later be measured.

26.In the light of the above guidelines of the Hon'ble Apex Court and as the said guidelines were not followed by the trial court, this court directed the learned Public Prosecutor to produce the materials relating to psychiatric and psychological evaluation of the accused for finding out the frame of mind or mental illness if any at the time of committing the crime and his conduct after he was put in prison. The report in this regard was also filed by the learned Public Prosecutor in a sealed cover.

27.The report of the Probation Officer (i/c), Prisons and Correctional Services Department, Saidapet @ Tambaram, Chennai, dated 15.11.2025 is as follows:

'With reference to the above cited subject, an enquiry has been conducted regarding convict PID No 458810 Satish s/o Dayalan (Central Prison-1, Chennai-66) in the residential address No 100D, Global View Apartment, Balagangadhar street, Adambakkam, Chennai-88.

After the incident, convict's parents vacated the house in raja street, and moved to Adambakkam with their younger daughter Mrs.Saranya to the above mentioned address which is a rented house. Now Mrs.Saranya is taking care of their parent's need.

Convict is un-married and he is a school dropout who had studied up to Class 8th in Mont fort school, St. Thomas Mount, Chennai. Due to loss of interest in studies he stopped to going to school. He tried to appear for tenth privately which was unsuccessful. Convict's parents were very loving and caring towards him. After that he had tried many jobs like electrician, mechanic etc. Sometimes he had tried to start business like Biryani shop and butcher shop. But he got consistent income from online clothes sales. helped everyone who asked him for help, He wouldn't do anything which disturb others and he used to mind his own business. He didn't create any ruckus even if he drank with his friends while attending functions. According to them, convict was always sitting in a mechanic shop and did the work what the owner said.

According to the family members, convict was not open to anyone, and he always stayed in his room and didn't talk much. According to them he was little bit introvert. Convict was not used to open up things and he always kept within.

Because of the disappointment being rejected by the woman he had been in love with for six years, he was behaving abnormal like yelling, always being alone, and felt depressed for six months before the incident. During that period convict was talking about suicide. During those days only, family members worried about his mental well-being. They wanted to send him to some other place so that he will not think of suicide and he might have a chance to think about his future life. Other than that he was a very normal, obedient person with less interaction. These were gathered from his family members.

As per the antecedent behavioral enquiry conducted in his area, Satish is a situational offender. And he was not habitual.

29.This court has considered the above reports. Considering the age of the accused and also taking note of the fact that the accused has no bad antecedents prior to the occurrence, the possibility of the accused person's reformation is higher and the accused has better chance of being reformed. The very sentencing policy itself is only for reformatory justice and not retributive justice.

30.Hon'ble Supreme court in Chhannu Lal Verma v. State of Chhattisgarh reported in (2019) 12 SCC 438 has dealt with the circumstances under which the aggravating and mitigating circumstances are to be considered and relevant paragraphs in this regard are paragraphs 12 to 18, which read as follows:

'12. In Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra [Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 5 SCC 546 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 402] this Court looked at the manner in which the aggravating and mitigating circumstances are to be weighed and how the rarest of rare test is to be applied while awarding death sentence and held thus : (SCC p. 576, para 52)

“52. Aggravating circumstances as pointed out above, of course, are not exhaustive so also the mitigating circumstances. In my considered view, the tests that we have to apply, while awarding death sentence are “crime test”, “criminal test” and the “R-R test” and not the “balancing test”. To award death sentence, the “crime test” has to be fully satisfied, that is, 100% and “criminal test” 0%, that is, no mitigating circumstance favouring the accused. If there is any circumstance favouring the accused, like lack of intention to commit the crime, possibility of reformation, young age of the accused, not a menace to the society, no previous track record, etc. the “criminal test” may favour the accused to avoid the capital punishment. Even if both the tests are satisfied, that is, the aggravating circumstances to the fullest extent and no mitigating circumstances favouring the accused, still we have to apply finally the rarest of the rare case test (R-R test). R-R test depends upon the perception of the society that is “society-centric” and not “Judge-centric”, that is, whether the society will approve the awarding of death sentence to certain types of crimes or not. While applying that test, the court has to look into variety of factors like society's abhorrence, extreme indignation and antipathy to certain types of crimes like sexual assault and murder of intellectually challenged minor girls, suffering from physical disability, old and infirm women with those disabilities, etc. Examples are only illustrative and not exhaustive. The courts award death sentence since situation demands so, due to constitutional compulsion, reflected by the will of the people and not the will of the Judges.”

13. In our opinion, the High Court has erroneously confirmed death penalty without correctly applying the law laid down in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] , Machhi Singh [Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 3 SCC 470 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 681] , Santosh Bariyar [Santosh Kumar Satishbhushan Bariyar v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 6 SCC 498 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1150] and Shankar Kisanrao Khade [Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 5 SCC 546 :

WEB COPY

(2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 402]. The decision to impose the highest punishment of death sentence in this case does not fulfil the test of “rarest of rare case where the alternative option is unquestionably foreclosed”. The questions laid down in para 39 of Machhi Singh [Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 3 SCC 470 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 681] have not been answered in the particular case. No evidence as to the uncommon nature of the offence or the improbability of reformation or rehabilitation of the appellant has been adduced. Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] unambiguously sets out that death penalty shall be awarded only in the rarest of rare cases where life imprisonment shall be wholly inadequate or futile owing to the nature of the crime and the circumstances relating to the criminal. Whether the person is capable of reformation and rehabilitation should also be taken into consideration while imposing death penalty. As laid down in Shankar Kisanrao Khade [Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 5 SCC 546 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 402] , whether the person would be a threat to society or whether not granting death penalty would send a wrong message to society are additional factors to be looked at. No such analysis was undertaken by the High Court. The High Court has also failed to look at the aggravating and mitigating circumstances regarding the criminal as warranted by Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] . The fact that the appellant had no previous criminal record apart from the acquittal in Section 376 IPC, which was a false implication and the alleged motive did not weigh with the High Court as an important mitigating circumstance with respect to the criminal.

14. In the past four decades or so, this Court has been consistently echoing its concern on the constitutional ethos on value and dignity of life, when it said in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] that “extreme depravity”(para 201), “it is the duty of the State to adduce evidence that there is no probability that the accused can be reformed” (para 206), “liberal and expansive construction” (para 209), “alternative option is unquestionably foreclosed” (para 209), “humane concern” (para 209), “real and abiding concern for dignity of human life” (para 209), in Machhi Singh [Machhi Singh v. State of Punjab, (1983) 3 SCC 470 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 681] that “gravest case of extreme culpability” (para 38), “only when life imprisonment appears to be an altogether inadequate punishment” (para 38), “mitigating circumstances should be given full weightage” (para 38), in Santosh Bariyar [Santosh Kumar Satishbhushan Bariyar v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 6 SCC 498 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1150] that “probability that the accused can be reformed and rehabilitated” (para 57), “the rarest of rare case is a negative precept” (para 58), “‘rarest of rare cases’ is an exceptionally narrow opening” (para 58), “extraordinary burden on the Court to impose death” (para 60), “maximum weightage to mitigating circumstances and yet no alternative except death” (para 39), “highest standards of judicial rigor and thoroughness” (para 61), and in Shankar Kisanrao Khade [Shankar Kisanrao Khade v. State of Maharashtra, (2013) 5 SCC 546 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 402] that “possibility of reformation, young age of the accused, not a menace to the society, no previous track record” (para 52), etc. These factors have not received due consideration by either the High Court or the trial court.

15. The appeal has been pending before this Court for the past four years. Since the appellant has been in jail, we wanted to know whether there was any attempt on his part for reformation. The Superintendent of the jail has given a certificate that his conduct in jail has been good. Thus, there is a clear indication that despite having lost all hope, yet no frustration has set on the appellant. On the contrary, there was a conscious effort on his part to lead a good life for the remaining period. A convict is sent to jail with the hope and expectation that he would make amends and get reformed. That there is such a positive change on a death row convict, in our view, should also weigh with the Court while taking a decision as to whether the alternative option is unquestionably foreclosed. As held by the Constitution Bench in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] it was the duty of the State to prove by evidence that the convict cannot be reformed or rehabilitated. That information not having been furnished by the State at the relevant time, the information now furnished by the State becomes all the more relevant. The standard set by the “rarest of rare” test in Bachan Singh [Bachan Singh v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 684 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 580] is a high standard. The conduct of the convict in prison cannot be lost sight of. The fact that the prisoner has displayed good behaviour in prison certainly goes on to show that he is not beyond reform.

16. In the matter of probability and possibility of reform of a criminal, we do not find that a proper psychological/psychiatric evaluation is done. Without the assistance of such a psychological/psychiatric assessment and evaluation it would not be proper to hold that there is no possibility or probability of reform. The State has to bear in mind this important aspect while proving by evidence that the convict cannot be reformed or rehabilitated.

17. Another aspect that has been overlooked by the High Court is the procedural impropriety of not having a separate hearing for sentencing at the stage of trial. A bifurcated hearing for conviction and sentencing was a necessary condition laid down in Santosh Bariyar [Santosh Kumar Satishbhushan Bariyar v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 6 SCC 498 : (2009) 2 SCC (Cri) 1150] . By conducting the hearing for sentencing on the same day, the trial court has failed to provide necessary time to the appellant to furnish evidence relevant to sentencing and mitigation.

18. For the abovementioned reasons, we hold that the imposition of death sentence was not the only option and hence the same needs to be commuted to imprisonment for life.'

31. Another decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sambhubhai Raisangbhai Padhiyar v. State of Gujarat reported in (2025) 2 SCC 399 is also usefully referred to. Paragraphs 38 to 45 of the aforesaid decision are very relevant to the case on hand and the same are extracted hereunder:

'38. The trial court has imposed the sentence of death and the High Court has confirmed the same. It is time for us to draw up a balance sheet of the aggravating and mitigating circumstances to decide whether the case falls in the category of the rarest of the rare case. We also need to examine whether the sentence of life imprisonment is foreclosed and the possibility of reformation is completely ruled out.

WEB COPY

39. Without doubt, the crime committed by the appellant was diabolic in character. He enticed the innocent child by tempting him with ice cream and brutally sodomised and murdered the four-year-old. The appellant also mercilessly strangled the deceased. The post-mortem report clearly indicated that death was due to asphyxia by throttling.

40. On the mitigating side, the appellant was 24 years of age when the incident happened; he had no criminal antecedents; the appellant hails from a low socio-economic household as the mitigation investigation report filed by Ms Komal of Project 39-A, pursuant to the order of this Court dated 5-10-2023 [Sambhubhai Raisangbhai Padhiyar v. State of Gujarat, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 2291] indicates. The mitigation report further indicates that experts have opined that the appellant is diagnosed with moderate intensity psychotic features and intellectual disability and that the appellant had in his early childhood contracted Tuberculosis Meningitis (TBM). The appellant, according to the report, maintains family ties with his 64-year-old mother who takes care of his 10-year-old daughter. The appellant's wife has deserted him.

41. By an order of 5-10-2023 [Sambhubhai Raisangbhai Padhiyar v. State of Gujarat, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 2291], we also called for the conduct and behaviour of the appellant from the Superintendent of Vadodara Central Jail as well as a report on his mental health. The report from the Superintendent of Vadoara Jail indicates that the behaviour of the appellant in prison is completely normal and that his conduct in jail is good. The report from the Hospital for Mental Health indicates that the appellant has no psychiatric problem at present. The report does indicate a feeling of remorse in the appellant. The appellant has contended that the projective test adopted by the Hospital for Mental Health has its limitations for reliability. Be that as it may.

42. Considering the overall facts and circumstances, we hold that the present is not a case where it can be said that the possibility of reformation is completely ruled out. The option of life imprisonment is also not foreclosed. The case does not fall in the category of the rarest of the rare case. We are of the opinion that ends of justice would be met if we adopt the path carved out in Swamy Shraddananda (2) v. State of Karnataka [Swamy Shraddananda (2) v. State of Karnataka, (2008) 13 SCC 767 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 113] .

43. Even though the case of the appellant falls short of the rarest of the rare category, considering the nature of the crime, we are strongly of the view that a sentence of life imprisonment which normally works out for 14 years would be grossly disproportionate and inadequate. Having regard to the nature of the offence, a sentence of imprisonment for a prescribed period without remission would alone be proportionate to the crime and also not jeopardise the public confidence in the efficacy of the legal system.

44. This Court recently in Navas v. State of Kerala [Navas v. State of Kerala, (2024) 14 SCC 82 : 2024 SCC OnLine SC 315] , advertng to this aspect had the following to say : (SCC para 48)

“48. How much is too much and how much is too little? This is the difficult area we have tried to address here. As rightly observed, there can be no straitjacket formulae. Pegging the point up to which remission powers cannot be invoked is an exercise that has to be carefully undertaken and the discretion should be exercised on reasonable grounds. The spectrum is very large. The principle in Swamy Shraddananda [Swamy Shraddananda (2) v. State of Karnataka, (2008) 13 SCC 767 : (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 113] as affirmed in V. Sriharan [Union of India v. V. Sriharan, (2016) 7 SCC 1 : (2016) 2 SCC (Cri) 695] was evolved as the normally accepted norm of 14 years was found to be grossly disproportionate on the lower side. At the same time, since it is a matter concerning the liberty of the individual, courts should also guard against any disproportion in the imposition, on the higher side too. A delicate balance has to be struck. While undue leniency, which will affect the public confidence and the efficacy of the legal system, should not be shown, at the same time, since a good part of the convict's life with freedom is being sliced away (except in cases where the Court decides to impose imprisonment till rest of the full life), in view of his incarceration, care should be taken that the period fixed is also not harsh and excessive. While by the very nature of the task mathematical exactitude is an impossibility, that will not deter the Court from imposing a period of sentence which will constitute “just deserts” for the convict.”

45. Applying this principle, we hold that a sentence of imprisonment for a period of 25 (twenty-five) years without remission would be “just deserts”. '

32. In the light of the aforesaid decisions of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is to be noted that the principle of reformation has gained importance in the criminal jurisprudence and is a significant factor while awarding sentence to the accused. The courts have to consider the possibility of reintegration of the accused offender into society particularly when the possibility of reformation of an accused is high considering the factors such as age, no previous criminal history and genuine remorse indicating a significant change of mind of the accused.

The Courts should see the individual criminal not as irrevocably criminal but as capable of reformation when they are provided with sufficient rehabilitative opportunities. A balancing judicial approach is necessary while awarding punishment to an accused like the one in the present case.

While assessing the case as to whether it qualifies under the rarest of rare category, it is necessary for the courts to exercise a balancing approach.

No doubt, the courts should look into the brutality of the offence, but at the same time, the factors such as the chances of reformation, the age of the accused, the socio economic background and prospects of rehabilitation must also be seen. A careful analysis of the case on hand would show that the case on hand would not fall within the category of

WEB COPY

'rarest of rare' case. While the offence is undoubtedly grave in nature and very serious one and requires maximum punishment, the materials placed on record do not show that the accused is beyond redemption. The punishment to be awarded to the accused should be reformatory in nature and the punishment is not solely retributive. The punishment should also serve as a deterrence as well as reformation. When there is a possibility of reformation, the aspect of reformation must be given primacy unless it is clearly ruled out by producing sufficient materials. The age of the accused must also be taken into account while considering the punishment. When there is likelihood of behavioural transformation, the courts should see that during the younger years, the youth possess the capacity of introspection, reform and they can reintegrate into the society.

In the absence of previous bad antecedents and further the accused is not a habitual offender but is a person who has acted under the influence of frustration, the said aspect must also be considered while modifying the sentence. Such a modification maintains a clear balancing approach that when there is a chance of reformation by the accused, the same shall not be closed or denied unless the possibility of reformation is clearly overruled. Therefore, it is appropriate that the death sentence awarded to the accused is to be modified to life imprisonment and the same will meet the ends of justice.

33.Considering the reports of the Probation Officer and the Superintendent of Prisons and considering the entire occurrence which is due to frustration of the accused because of failure in the love affair and the family of the deceased disowned him, we are of the view that the death sentence is not warranted and if life imprisonment is awarded, that will meet the ends of justice.

34.It is also appropriate to refer to the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Review Petition (Criminal) No.308 of 2011 in Criminal Appeal No.379 of 2009, dated 14.02.2019 [Md. Mannan @ Abdul Mannan Vs. State of Bihar] with regard to the length of imprisonment. Paragraphs 87 to 89 are relevant and the same reads as

‘87. In Swamy Shraddananda (supra), this court held:

“92. The matter may be looked at from a slightly different angle. The issue of sentencing has two aspects. A sentence may be excessive and unduly harsh or it may be highly disproportionately inadequate. When an appellant comes to this Court carrying a death sentence awarded by the trial court and confirmed by the High Court, this Court may find, as in the present appeal, that the case just falls short of the rarest of the rare category and may feel somewhat reluctant in endorsing the death sentence. But at the same time, having regard to the nature of the crime, the Court may strongly feel that a sentence of life imprisonment subject to remission normally works out to a term of 14 years would be grossly disproportionate and inadequate. What then should the Court do? IF the Court’s option is limited only to two punishments, one a sentence of imprisonment, for all intents and purposes, of not more than 14 years and the other death, the Court may feel tempted and find itself nudged into endorsing the death penalty. Such a course would indeed be disastrous. A far more just, reasonable and proper course would be to expand the options and to take over what, as a matter of fact, lawfully belongs to the Court i.e. the vast hiatus between 14 years' imprisonment and death. It needs to be emphasised that the Court would take recourse to the expanded option primarily because in the facts of the case, the sentence of 14 year's imprisonment would amount to punishment at all.”

88. In Mulla and Another v. State of U.P.<sup>25</sup>, this Court has 24 Bihar Prisons Manual 2012, Rule 642 25 (2010) 3 SCC 508 33 affirmed that it is open to the Court to prescribe the length of incarceration. This is especially true in cases where death sentence has been replaced by the life imprisonment. This Court observed, “the court should be free to determine the length of imprisonment which will suffice the offence committed.”

89. Even though life imprisonment means imprisonment for entire life, convicts are often granted reprieve and/or remission of sentence after imprisonment of not less than 14 years. In this case, considering the heinous, revolting, abhorrent and despicable nature of the crime committed by the petitioner, we feel that the petitioner should undergo imprisonment for life, till his natural death and no remission of sentence be granted to him. ‘

35. In the light of the above reasonings and decisions, the

R.T.No.1 of 2025 and CrI.A.No.1744 of 2025

conviction imposed on the accused vide judgment dated 27.12.2024 in

S.C.No.194 of 2023 under section 302 of IPC is confirmed but the death sentence awarded by the trial court with a direction to pay a fine of

Rs.25,000/- and in default to undergo one year simple imprisonment is modified to life imprisonment with a direction that the appellant / accused shall not be entitled for any statutory remission or commutation until he serves incarceration for a period of twenty (20) years. This direction is issued considering the age of the accused and the possibility of his reformation is higher and also in the light of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sambhubhai Raisangbhai Padhiyar supra.

36.The conviction and sentence imposed on the accused under section 4 of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition of Harassment of Women Act, 1998 are set aside and the fine amount if any paid by the accused in respect of said conviction and sentence shall be ordered to be returned to the accused. The direction issued by the trial court in respect of compensation of Rs.10,00,000/- to the younger sisters of the deceased

R.T.No.1 of 2025 and CrI.A.No.1744 of 2025

from the Tamil Nadu State Government is not disturbed by this judgment.
